CRI Recognized as a Finalist in SmartCEO 2013 Washington GOVStar Awards

McLean, VA – July 9, 2013 – SmartCEO recognized CRI as a finalist in the 2013 Washington GOVStar Awards which recognized 60 companies (45 finalists and 15 winners) in the Washington, D.C., area that have demonstrated excellence in the complex and competitive government contracting sector. This award recognizes government contractors in small, medium and large categories for their workplace environment, support of war veterans, technology innovations, growth and overall contributions to the industry and marketplace.

"During 2013, CRI has continued our excellent support to our government customers. Much of our success has been based on streamlining their business processes and implementing innovative technologies, such as mobile applications, to make their jobs easier. This GOVStar recognition reflects our ongoing employee attention to customer needs."
 - Victoria Johnson, CRI's President/CEO

"Each year we recognize government contracting firms and their leaders for their dedication to the industry and passion for their work. And each year I am even more impressed by these Greater Washington companies. They are inspirational and patriotic, and we are proud to recognize them for their achievements."
 -SmartCEO Regional President Jaime Nespor
